Receiving Party shall: (i) not use any Confidential Information for any purpose except to exercise its rights and obligations under this Agreement; (ii) protect all Confidential Information using the same degree of care which it uses with respect to its own confidential information, but in no event less than reasonable care; and (iii) not, without Disclosing Party's prior written consent, disclose the Confidential Information to any third party except to its employees, contractors and agents ("Permitted Recipients") who have a need to know in order to enable Receiving Party to perform its rights and obligations under this Agreement, provided that each Permitted Recipient is bound by a written obligation of confidentiality that is at least as demanding as the confidentiality and non-disclosure obligations imposed on Receiving Party under this Agreement, and further provided that Receiving Party shall be liable to Disclosing

Party for any breach of confidentiality or non-disclosure by a Permitted Recipient. Receiving Party shall promptly notify Disclosing Party of any actual or threatened unauthorized disclosure or use of Confidential Information. If any Confidential Information must be disclosed to any third party by reason of legal, accounting or regulatory requirements beyond the reasonable control of Receiving Party, Receiving Party shall (to the extent permitted by applicable law) promptly notify Disclosing Party of the order or request and permit Disclosing Party (at its own expense) to seek an appropriate protective order. Confidential Information does not include information that: (a) was known to Receiving Party prior to its disclosure by Disclosing Party without breach of any obligation owed to Disclosing Party; (b) is or becomes generally known to the public without breach of any obligation owed to Disclosing Party; (c) has come into the possession of Receiving Party rightfully from a third party without any breach of obligation of confidentiality owed to Disclosing Party; and/or (d) was developed by Receiving Party independently of and without reference to Confidential Information.
